Nonfiction literature -- or "the literature" of fact -- is being rehabilitated within the literary establishment, and rhetoric is being repatriated after nearly a century of exile from the literary

In The Rhetoric of the "Other" Literature, Winterowd argues—correctly—that the "facticity" of certain works (for example, the nonfiction novel) has created a subcategory of literature, a "literature of fact," which is regarded as less "true," in the way that "pure literature" is "true," by an academy which is still bound by Coleridge's distinction between primary and secondary . Using traditional and contemporary rhetorical theory, Winterowd argues that the fiction-nonfiction division of literature is unjustified and destructive. He would bridge the gap between literary scholars and rhetoricians by including both fiction (imaginative literature) and nonfiction (literature of fact) in the bongodogdesigns.com: Dr. W. Ross Winterowd PhD. Definition, Usage and a list of Rhetoric Examples in common speech and literature. Rhetoric is a technique of using language effectively and persuasively in spoken or written form.
